

Life at Annerley

A LIFE OPTIONS initiative of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Queensland
Giving life back

Life Options is designed to empower people with MS with high care needs to live more independently in housing that is within the community, not separate in a nursing home.

MS Queensland believes that supported residential services should contribute to ensuring that the conditions of the everyday life of people with MS are the same as, or as close as possible to, norms and patterns which are available to people in the general community.

My name is Wendy Lovelace. I'm an architect and I too live with MS. I was delighted to contribute my professional skills to help MS Queensland complete this inaugural Life Options project.

Life at Annerley gives eight young people living with MS and high care needs the chance to live in the community in regular townhouses, sharing with just one other person. The household of two will decide the things that others may take for granted, like what's for dinner and the paint colour of their walls. They can even have pets!

You may not realise the difference this can make to someone's quality of life.

We receive no government funding to fit out these houses with life's essentials and we need your help. Just check one or two items on the shopping list on the back and help us add the finishing touches on these houses that will soon become home for people like Peter and Jenny.
